LI BUTTI, advised she loaned him approximately $800 which he obtained from her in a "con scheme" indicating he was expecting a large check on the sale of bonds and would pay back this loan when this check arrived. Subject left with [redacted] as security a check in the amount of $300 drawn on the Hudson County National Bank, 95 River Street, Hoboken, New Jersey. This check has subsequently been returned by the bank as a "no account" check.

[redacted] advised that LI BUTTI took her entire savings and had taken the savings of other people in the [redacted] California area in the same manner. She advised that she understood that RALPH LA SPADE was not subject's true name and that he used the name RALPH LA SPADE in contacts with her. She advised she believes this is subject's mother's maiden name [redacted] who advised she is Italian, received the impression from LI BUTTI that he was associated with "People". She stated that [redacted] and [redacted] were present when LI BUTTI borrowed the money but did not enter into the transaction. She indicated that she had been conducting extensive investigation attempting to get back money loaned by her to LI BUTTI but has no idea of his present whereabouts.

Inasmuch as the Los Angeles Office has advised [redacted] of the extreme importance of having subject contact either the Los Angeles Office or Newark Office and [redacted] inquiry as to whether this was a matter of life or death, it appears apparent that LI BUTTI is aware of the danger to his life and has apparently ignored the plea of the FBI to contact that agency.

Unless Newark has some objection unknown to the Los Angeles Office, the Los Angeles Office will not conduct a fugitive type investigation to locate LI BUTTI and will advise the Los Angeles Police Department of the imminent possibility of danger to this man's life.
